

IUNA TINTA AT SOON ART GALLERY

Pin it

• Ana Vesnik

Swiss born artist Iuna Tina joins forces with local artist Silvio Brügger to put on an exhibition in SOON Art Gallery in Bern, Switzerland. Exhibition deals with ever so current questions of global warming, its effects and consequences. The title of Iuna Tinta's show is From Northern Skies to Southern Seas. This topic is important and recurrent in Iuna Tinta's work.

WIDEWALLS

| | | | |
|-------------------|------------------|-------------------|------------------|
| | | | |
| 41571 Follower | 7927 Follower | 12293 Follower | 5135 Follower |

2748
Follower

LATEST POPULAR RANDOM TAGS

10 Contemporary Art Hotels You Should Know

As you know, here at Widewalls, we are big fans of urban and contemporary art. Last year, we made a list of 10 Urban Art Hotels you should now, and now it is time for the kind of...

Tom LaDuke at Kohn Gallery
Famous painting by the Italian renaissance master Sandro Botticelli – La Primavera (also known as Allegory of Spring), is one of the most written about paintings in the world...

Igor Amelkovich – Language of a Body

Fascination with human body was a focal point of photographers since the invention of the medium. Variations on the theme of body explorations are multiple, and so are the...

DXTR, Look and Vidam at Affenfaust Gallery

ARTISTS MAGAZINE

Browse 30.000 pages right here!

All

While growing up in Switzerland luna Tinta had spent great amount of time playing outside and becoming interconnected with Earth. To her nature started feeling like foundation, something like a home and the love of it is evident in her oeuvre. Even though she now spends much of her time away she always returns to her Alpine landscapes. Climate change remains substantial part of luna Tinta's work and it is also the subject of her newest pieces that will be on display in SOON Gallery. Hence, the impressive mountain tops arise in her new paintings showing the over the top kitschy light which simultaneously brings power and strength to the pictures. There is certain similarity in the choice of themes with Serbian artist Natasa Kotic.

luna Tinta – Global Warming

luna Tinta

luna Tinta's real name is Corinne Weidmann and she is Swiss born artist currently living in London. Although she had spent most of her live in her native Switzerland she started traveling after graduating Graphic Design. luna Tinta lived for few years in Costa Rica and Canada. She has a keen interest in foreign art and is greatly inspired by shapes and colors of pre-Columbian America. luna Tinta finds northern dark fairy tales enchanting and she immensely enjoys how animals are represented in Japanese Shintoism. However, living abroad made luna Tinta more aware of her own Swiss roots and it is only in the last few years that she started discovering her heritage and implementing it in her work. Since then she became deeply immersed and intoxicated by Swiss folk art, its' landscape and country itself. luna Tinta believes that it is living abroad that makes us grow more conscious of the place that we come from and things that shaped us into who we are now. luna Tinta also thinks that everything that happens in one's life is bound to influence that person. So it comes as no surprise that having spent most of her life in Switzerland she is now so captivated by mountains.

place at the Hamburg Urban and Contemporary Affenfaust Gallery. The title of the exhibition is The Haul and it features three hip...

Widewalls Podcast #11: Dzia Krank

For Widewalls Podcast #11

we decided to catch up with a street artist who over recent weeks has made regular appearances in the weekly Widewalls Street Updates and whose wonderful...

luna Tinta at SOON Art Gallery

Swiss born artist luna Tina joins forces with local artist Silvio Brügger to put on an exhibition in SOON Art Gallery in Bern, Switzerland. Exhibition deals with ever so current...

Patrick Martinez: Forbidden Fruit

New Image Art, the Los Angeles based gallery, has announced details of a new solo exhibition by Los Angeles artist Patrick Martinez. Forbidden Fruit will be the first solo...

When is Art Overpriced?

We recently wrote about the quite bizarre case which took place in Gaza strip, when a local resident sold Banksy's work for just $ 175. Of course, this was quite a unique case,...

Left: luna Tinta – Los Angeles / Right: Silvio Brügger

luna Tinta at SOON Art Gallery

luna Tint and Silvio Brügger found joint fascination in their native country's beautiful landscape. Brügger is landscape photographer who lives in Bern and is a member of Blackyard Collective. Whether he is in his Bern Alps or some other mountainous area his camera is always there to capture beauty of the mountains, passages and valleys. In this exhibition Brügger desires to present viewers with his impressive enlarged photographs that give observers insight into captivating beauty of the mountain world. Silvio Brügger's event is called It's a big rock hurling through the Universe. Through this exhibition both artists wish to emphasize magnificence of their beloved mountains but they also want to draw attention to the fact that those mountains are in great danger because of the global warming effects and human negligence.

Exhibition will be open from April 10th until April 25th 2015 in SOON Art Gallery in Bern.

If you enjoyed reading this you may be interested in reading Josef Koudelka's Twelve Panoramas or Sebastian Salgado and his Origin of the World.

Keep up with contemporary and urban art by signing up for My Widewalls!

luna Tint – Appenzell

All Images are Courtesy of the SOON Art Gallery.

LET'S STAY IN TOUCH!

Your email address